Charles E. McCreight, Ph.D.

The staff of the 1980 Gray Matter established specific criteria for the selection of the person to whom this annual is dedicated. These included: a person with whom every student has had contact during the course of the student's medical education at Bowman Gray; a person who has taught a subject vital to the student's medical education; a person who has contributed to the community life of Winston-Salem; and a person who has been a friend to each of the medical students throughout his or her medical school career. Dr. Charles E. McCreight fulfills each of these criteria admirably, and it is for these achievements that we dedicate Volume XXXVI of the Gray Matter to him.

Im Memoriam

Frank R. Lock was born in Lake Charles, Louisiana, October 30, 1910 and received his primary and secondary education there and in Hot Springs, Arkansas. He graduated from Cornell University in 1931 and, following a family tradition in the medical profession, he attended Tulane University School of Medicine graduating from that institution in 1935. After an internship at Southern Pacific Hospital in San Francisco, he returned to his native South to Touro Infirmary for a residency in Obstetrics and Gynecology. During his residency years he was the C. Jeff Miller Fellow in Obstetrics and Gynecology at Tulane and Charity Hospital of Louisiana.

Upon completion of his residency in 1939, Dr. Lock spent a year as Instructor in Obstetrics and Gynecology at Tulane. Then, he studied Obstetrical and Gynecologic Pathology at Johns Hopkins University for part of a year. In 1941, he joined the young faculty of the then new four-year medical school of Wake Forest College in Winston-Salem, the Bowman Gray School of Medicine, as Chairman of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology and Chief of the Obstetric and Gynecologic Service at the North Carolina Baptist Hospital, positions which he held for the next twenty-five years.

Uncle Frank, as many of his friends knew him, was acutely aware of Obstetric and Gynecologic needs in post-depression North Carolina and immediately set out to do something about them. He established a group of satellite prenatal clinics in Winston-Salem and surrounding counties, all feeding into the teaching center at Bowman Gray — a system not unlike that proposed for regionalized perinatal care today. He was instrumental in establishing North Carolina's Maternal Welfare Committee and chaired that committee for a number of years. A significant number of his publications were inspired by this activity including papers on maternal mortality, post-partum sterilization, abortion, and intrauterine death. Early on, he established a Gynecologic Tumor Clinic and personally supervised the Cancer Service for over twenty years. Undoubtedly his interest in this area was facilitated by his surgical prowess, particularly the areas of vaginal surgery, radical oncologic procedures, and conservative uterine fertility techniques.

His interests were broad including pioneer work in transabdominal amniocentesis, evaluation of the effects of maternal rubella on the fetus, and an appreciation of the need for basic research in our specialty. He actively supported Richard L. Burt's investigations of carbohydrate and fat metabolism during pregnancy and was primarily responsible for encouraging my own investigations of uterine vascular physiology.

Perhaps his greatest accomplishment developed from a life-long concern over the behavioral aspects of health and disease as they affected his patients. Pursuing the need for more precise definition and wider promulgation of the significance of such factors, he established a Section on Marriage and Family within his Department, one of the first in the nation to carry formal course work to medical students. In his inaugural address to the College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, he emphasized the inadequacies of medical school, intern and residency programs in teaching counseling for Family Life Programs and led it to implement a national program for Family Life Education for physicians through its Commission on Education whereby it "accepted the challenge to improve the care and health of women within the context of health as a state of complete physical, mental and social well being, and not merely as the absence of disease or infirmity."

Dr. Lock was also an accomplished administrator. He was influential in the early development of teaching and research programs of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine. His achievements were recognized by his election to membership to state, regional and national invitational societies. He served as President of the North Carolina Obstetrical and Gynecological Society, The South Atlantic Association of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, The American Association of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, and The American Gynecological Society.

In 1964, Dr. Lock experienced the first of a series of illnesses and operations which plagued him until his death. He tackled each one with confidence and a will to live. However, he stepped down as Departmental Chairman in 1966 and retired in 1973. During his final illness, he typically chose a risky operation rather than a prolonged terminal illness. He died November 29, 1979 as he had lived: afraid of little, contented, but still struggling to survive in Winston-Salem in the hospital he loved.

Everyone thinks the future of work-saving machines is what's the latest gimmick we can use them with? But has everyone forgotten what work-saving machines are supposed to do? Namely work. At Savin we have a special genius for making machines more reliable than anyone ever thought was possible. Take the Savin 780 Copier. It was built from the plug up to be faster, easier and more reliable. For instance: Paper sheets 12 inches, not 8 lines, to prevent jam-ups. For instance: A warning brain that automatically detects when the original is bad and makes a sharp copy. For instance: Easy-to-load paper cassettes you can switch from letter to legal size in a second. For instance: Automatic coloring of both original and copy.

There are more. For instance: But we'll just say this. Savin is now placing more plain paper copiers than Xerox and IBM combined. And this. Savin is so certain our machines work reliably that we back them with an eight-year continuous maintenance agreement. The future is the Savin 780 series. And they work. And that's a one great step for office land.

GROWING UP

What are you going to be when you grow up?

I've seen mothers lean over a crib and hold a hand no bigger than an Alka-Seltzer tablet and ask the question. I've seen grandmothers ask it of a child who could walk under a coffee table without hitting his head. I've seen teachers pose the question to children who can't color inside the lines. Wouldn't it be great if "growing up" and "being something" occurred on the same day?

My children's ambitions read like the Yellow Pages. One wanted to be a doctor until he discovered you have to wash up to the elbows. One wanted to be the Pope until he figured out you have to work Sundays. Another wanted to be a real estate man so he could play on the steps all day.

We act as if we are on a timetable. The day after graduation we roll out of bed and say "Well, here I am all grown up and a physicist right on schedule." But maturity is a time when you begin to know yourself. Who you are, what you are, and what you can be.

The other day I heard a visitor say to our college son, "What are you going to be when you grow up?"

"With a lot of luck — old," he said.

He's getting there.

Martha Urbanik for listening to the editor's gripes and for collating all sorts of information. Jack Dent and Paris Kirkland in the Audio-Visual Department for adjusting to our schedules. Mr. Bill Glance in the Office of Information and Publications for supplying several faculty photographs. Mary Denton Roberts and Gayle Adcock for getting the graduate student section underway. Dr. Frank Moyer for providing his (in)famous "cut lines" for the faculty and house officer sections. George Lynch in A-V for helping with the aesthetics of the cover design. Mr. Anselmo Carini of the Art Institute of Chicago for supplying the cover photograph quickly and inexpensively. Mr. Charles Englebert for putting up with seeing the editor every day for two months until the art book arrived. Dr. Tolmie for our "new" office. Mr. Bill Hunter for patiently answering our questions, most of them stupid. Jane Elolf, Elaine Cecelski, and Beverly Perry in A-V for helping out in the last-minute, pre-deadline crisis. Lynn Snyder and Pam Ashmore for tolerating our intrusions into the Office of Student Affairs. And everyone else who pitched in in any way to help us out, especially Andy, who endured the mess at home for five months.

Thank you.
